A WALKTHROUGH ARCHITECTURE AND URBAN PLANNING IN ISRAEL AND PALESTINE, TODAY.

Three conferences by Prof. Arch. Amnon Bar Or, visiting professor,
The David Azrieli School of Architecture, Tel Aviv University, Israel

Scientific coordination	Prof. Francesco Alberti, Prof. Gastone Ave, DA, University of Ferrara, Italy
1	Tuesday 5th April 2022 H 16.00- 18.00	The city of Tel Aviv Jaffa - East or West? The lecture is on the urban planning history and other topics and challenges concerning past and present issues, as accelerated development, preservation of cultural heritage, protection and sheltering against war shelling, urgent need for new residential units, Bauhaus in TLV and more. Since the end of the 19th century, among the immigrants to Palestine were Jewish European architects who were profoundly influenced by the modern movements, above all by the German "Bauhaus" School. As early as the 1930's, "Modern Style" was considered as the new Zionist style and there were several architects that created some architectural masterpieces of international interest. Tel-Aviv's "White City" was declared a World Heritage Site by UNESCO in 2003, a local interpretation based on the extraordinary collection of modern architecture deriving mainly from the European Modern Movement. The lecture will provide an understanding of the modern architecture in the Middle East and its influence on local culture over the years. Discussant: Daniele Pini, former DA Professor of Urban Planning, Unesco consultant
2	Thursday 28 th April 2022 H 14.30-16.30	Conservation of the built heritage in the Holy Land in light of local and global political events in the 20th and 21st centuries Discussant: Alessandro Massarente, DA Prof. of Architectural and Urban Design
3	Wednesday 4th May 2022 H 14.30-16.30	Modern architecture in Palestine from 19th century to present times, western and local influences Discussant: Antonello Stella, DA Prof. of Architectural and Urban Design
