Lindbergh's Own Story in Tribune Tomorrow

Captain Charles A. Lindbergh was too exhausted after his ar-rival in Paris late Saturday night, to do more than indicate his experiences during his flight. After he awakes Sunday, he will narrate the full story of his re-markable exploit for readers of Monday's Minneapolis Tribuna.

DIFFERENZE FRA SHORT STORY E PLAY

Nella short story il delitto rimane del tutto impunito: l'avvocato, sospettando qualcosa, dopo la fine del processo si reca a casa di Romaine Hailiger, la moglie di Leonard Vole, che gli rivela la verità. «Penso ancora», disse il piccolo avvocato Mayherne con tono grave, «che avremmo potuto farlo uscire secondo ... la normale procedura».

«Non volevo correre rischi. Lei credeva che fosse innocente».

«E lei ne aveva la certezza».

«Mio caro signor Mayherne, è del tutto fuori strada. Io sapevo che era colpevole».

Nel play Romane pugnala a morte Leonard nell'aula dove si appena svolto il processo dopo avere saputo che il marito intende lasciarla per una ragazza più giovane. Leonard – Ho i soldi. Mi hanno assolto, non mi possono più processare, per cui piantala e chiudi la bocca, se non vuoi finire impiccata come complice.

Romaine prende il coltello dal tavolo.

Romaine – No, non va così. Non mi impiccano come complice. Non mi processano per falsa testimonianza, ma per omicidio. Perché uccido l'unico uomo che ho amato.

Romaine pugnala Leonard, che stramazza a terra, poi guarda verso il banco del giudice.

Romaine - Sì, colpevole, vostro onore.

DIFFERENZE FRA PLAY E FILM

 Vengono introdotti dei flashback che si riferiscono alla vita precedente di Leonard Vole. I primi tre intervengono all'inizio e descrivono la sua relazione con Emily French. Il quarto interviene più avanti e mostra il suo primo incontro con Christine Helm.

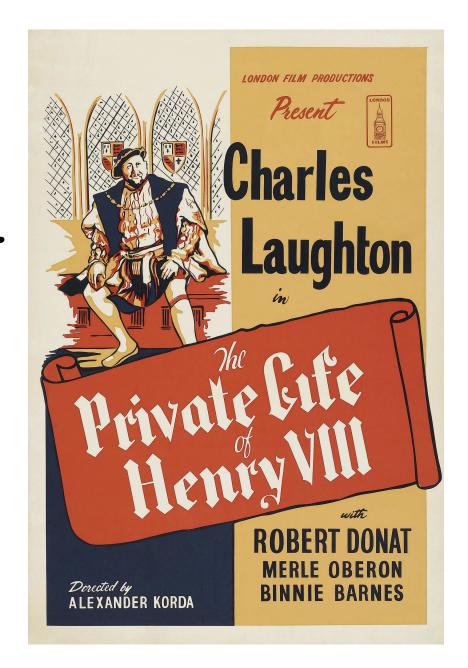

- Nel play Sir Wilfrid Robarts è solo un abile professionista, nel film diventa un famoso avvocato che ritorna al lavoro dopo un lungo periodo di degenza in ospedale causato da un infarto.
- Viene inoltre introdotto un nuovo personaggio, la petulante infermiera Miss Plimsoll, assente nel play.

• Genere di jazz caratterizzato dalle variazioni improvvisate dai solisti, dall'uso frequente del sincopato e da particolare intensità e calore.

(Repubblica)

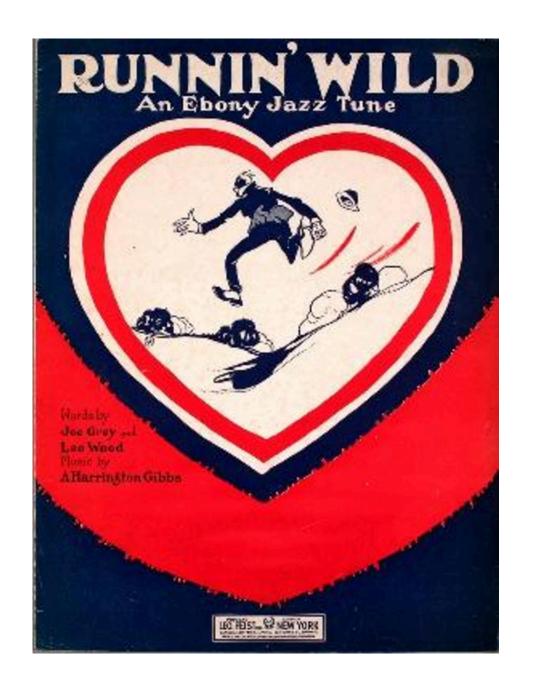

• Stile di jazz che s'identifica in genere con il jazz tradizionale, in contrapposizione al cool jazz («jazz freddo»), che indica invece il jazz moderno.

«Billy mi mise in mano una coppia di maracas e io pensai che fosse impazzito. Se non mi avesse fatto danzare di gioia per la stanza la maggior parte del dialogo sarebbe andata perduta. Ogni volta che pronunciavo una battuta mi mettevo a danzare agitando le maracas mentre Tony mi guardava come se avessi perso la ragione».

(Jack Lemmon)

«Nonostante i due protagonisti siano vestiti da donna, i loro processi mentali rimangono al cento per cento maschili. Quando c'è una lieve aberrazione, come nel coinvolgimento di Lemmon, il divertimento raddoppia. Ma non pensano mai a loro stessi come delle donne. Solo per un attimo Lemmon dimentica chi è. Mentre Curis passa tutto il tempo a corteggiare Marilyn».

(I.A.L. Diamond)

«Anche quando Lemmon dimentica la propria identità, non si tratta di un rapporto omosessuale. È solo l'idea di avere una relazione con un milionario. È una cosa molto attraente. Non c'è bisogno di essere omosessuale. Dà un senso di sicurezza».

(Billy Wilder)
