

BIBLIOGRAPHY

English Literature II

Corso di Laurea Magistrale in Lingue e Letterature Straniere

Franco Moretti, "Conjectures on World Literature", 2000.

W. C. Dimock, "Literature for the Planet", 2001.

David Damrosch, "Toward a History of World Literature", 2008.

David Damrosch, "World Literature, National Contexts", 2003.

Anders Pettersson, "Transcultural Literary History: Beyond Constricting Notions of World Literature", 2008.

Thomas More, Utopia, 1516.

Brendan Bradshaw, "More on Utopia", 1981.

Thomas S. Engeman, "Hythloday's Utopia and More's England: an Interpretation of Thomas More's Utopia", 1982.

Vita Fortunati, Utopia by Thomas More, 2000.

Aphra Behn, Oroonoko, 1688.

Moira Ferguson, "Oroonoko. Birth of a Paradigm", 1992.

Oddvar Holmesland, "Aphra Behn's Oroonoko. Cultural Dialectics and the Novel", 2001.

V. G. Dickson, "Truth, Wonder, and Exemplarity in Aphra Behn's Oroonoko", 2007.

Jonathan Swift, Gulliver's Travels, 1726.

Eugene R. Hammond, "Nature-Reason-Justice in Utopia and Gulliver's Travels", 1982.

Clement Hawes, "Three Times Round the Globe: Gulliver and Colonial Discourse", 1991.

Richard Rodino, "'Splendide Mendax': Authors, Characters, and Readers in Gulliver's Travels", 1991.

Emily Brontë, Wuthering Heights, 1850.

Arnold Krupat, "The Strangeness of Wuthering Heights", 1970.

Anne Williams, "Natural Supernaturalism in Wuthering Heights", 1985.

Michael S. Macovski, "Wuthering Heights and the Rhetoric of Interpretation", 1987.

A. S. Byatt. Possession. A Romance, 1990.

Adrienne Shiffman, “‘Burn What They Should Not See’: The Private Journal as Public Text in A. S. Byatt’s Possession”, 2001.

Ann Marie Adams, “Dead Authors, Born Readers, and Defunct Critics: Investigating Ambiguous Critical Identities in A. S. Byatt’s Possession”, 2003.

Mark M. Hennelly, “‘Repeating Patterns’ and Textual Pleasures: Reading (In) A. S. Byatt’s Possession: A Romance”, 2003.